OTHER OPPORTUNITIES:

Want to inspire student curiosity, ability to connect disparate ideas, and disposition to create things and systems that contribute to the world? Is there a project that you'd like to assign students that would support their learning while impacting the world through product development, citizen science, original research, or public education? Do you think the project could be even better if the students built something, but you're unsure of if/how they could do so with resources available? If so, B-Fab is for you! B-Fab, the Bucknell Fabrication Workshop, equips faculty with makerspace training and EML pedagogical tools to empower you to assign interesting and complex projects where students make use of the entrepreneurial mindset and campus makerspaces in pursuit of their finished product. If this sounds appealing, we invite you to apply through the link below.

Making Makerspaces Work for You- Creating Class Projects that Motivate and Inspire the Entrepreneurial Mindset

AKA: A Taste of B-Fab

Sunday, June 16, 9am-noon, ASEE Conference & Exposition, Tampa Convention Center Room 31
